DETAILED ACTION

This is the First Office Action in response to the above identified patent application filed on March 29, 2004.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 2, 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nagase (JP 8-26174) in view of Crum et al. (USP 6,276,230).

Nagase discloses an electrical bicycle shift control device fixed to an end portion of a bicycle handlebar, the shift control device comprising: an electrical shift control switch (20) connected to an operating member (19) arranged and configured to be selectively moved relative to the handlebar between a neutral position and a first actuating position.

Nagase does not disclose a mounting portion that is fixedly mounted in a free end of the handlebar, wherein the electrical shift control switch is mounted to the handlebar mounting portion. However, the prior art to Crum et al. teaches the claim limitations of mounting a control sensor onto an end of a bicycle handlebar, wherein the sensor is mounted to a mounting portion (250,260), the mounting portion being fixedly mounted in a free end of a handlebar. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the shift control of Nagase such that the sensor arrangement is mounted within an end portion of a handlebar, as taught by Crum et al., motivation being to provide a control device that is compact, easily assembled, and relatively inexpensive.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 3-7, and 9-22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Note the shift device of Romano ('897) having an expandable mounting portion (12). Note the shift device of Patterson ('291) having a shift device mounted on an end portion of the handlebar.

Conclusion
